by Catherine Reid

"His Hands, His Tools, His Sex, His Dress" examines the complicated and critical relationship between lesbians and their fathers and the way it permeates and shapes their lives.

This collection of poems and essays by 23 critically acclaimed lesbian writers - including Tristan Taormino, Gretchen Legler, Karin Cook, and Holly Hughes - encompasses the breadth of American experience, white and black, Jewish and Catholic, wealthy and working-class and poor. "His Hands, His Tools, His Sex, His Dress" expresses all the love, power, and pain of the dynamic relationship between fathers and lesbian daughters.

"At last, a book about the father-lesbian daughter relationship -- the identifications, attractions, conflicts, and joys. A must read." -- Suzanne Lasenza, coeditor of Lesbians and Psychoanalysis.

Oh, the Places You'll Go!

Rev. Jay Wolin

This is one of my all-time favorite books. It is not only fun, but has deep theological questions within it. It is just a wonderful story. It speaks of adventure, choices, challenges, failure, and achievements that a person will experience in their lives. Come and explore with me. Who knows where it will lead?
